REGGAE FIT FOR ROYALS

DJ Eddie K gets rejection letter from Prince – but plans his wedding playlist just in case

By Lucy Purdy

A REGGAE DJ from Tottenham is planning his set list for the royal wedding – as there is still a slim chance he might be called on to perform.

Eddie K has received a letter from Prince William's representatives thanking him for offering to man the decks at the Prince's wedding to Kate Middleton on April 29, and promising to call him if the need arises.

Eddie, 38, who hosts a radio show for patients at The Whittington Hospital in Highgate, was thrilled to hear back from William's office – even though it was with bad news. And he has prepared a song list for the day, just in case they take him up on his offer at the last minute.

Eddie, a father of four, told the Advertiser: "Reggae is my first love but I would obviously play a selection of music.

"I think William is into his house and dance music – I think he loves his partying. I don't know how good his dancing would be, but I reckon he can move."

The letter from St James' Palace read: "Prince William has asked me to thank you for the kind offer of your services as a DJ in connection with his forthcoming marriage to Miss Catherine Middleton. We will, of course, contact you should we wish to take you up on your kind offer."

Eddie added: "I would play something like Clint Eastwood by Gorillaz, but the Sweetie Irie mix which is a faster, reggae version. Then I would play Gappy Ranks' Heaven In Her Eyes, and a classic would be Rob Base and DJ E-Z Rock. With all the love in the air, I think guests would want to hear Is This Love by Bob Marley. And there would have to be some Michael Jackson in there, because I know William liked him – it would be nostalgic and remind him of when he was growing up. I know Kate is a fan of Abba so I would play Dancing Queen.

"It would be a mixture of reggae, pop music and a few ballads – it would be a great party!"

Lib Dem's group leader steps down

By Lucy Purdy

HARINGEY'S Liberal Democrat leader Robert Gorrie has announced he is stepping down after three years at the helm.

Mr Gorrie will officially end his term of office at the party's annual general meeting on May 11 when a new leader will be announced.

The Hornsey councillor was first elected to Haringey Council in May 2006 following a swing which left Labour with no representation in the ward, and he took on leadership of the Lib Dem group in 2008.

Mr Gorrie said: "It has been a great pleasure to play a part in many successful campaigns and holding this incompetent Labour administration to account. However we need a leader to take us through to at least 2014.

"The Lib Dem council group in Haringey has so many people and I'm really looking forward to the new team being in place. Stepping down will give me more time to spend on the most enjoyable part of being a councillor, which is working with my two ward colleagues Errol Reid and Monica Whyte to support the people of Hornsey.

"I will continue to fight for the residents of Hornsey against the current controversial plans for a train shed at Coronation Sidings. I will continue campaigning for more Neighbourhood Watches and a safer Hornsey high street and I will continue pushing the council for a solution to the Hornsey Depot site which has been derelict for too long."

In his time as leader, Mr Gorrie has spearheaded the scrutiny of the Labour administration over the tragic death of Baby Peter and led the group in questioning "financial disasters" such as the £37million of taxpayers' money being frozen in Icelandic banks.

Hornsey and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone said: "Robert has always been a strong leader and a true Liberal. And at times of great need – when leadership really counts – he has never flinched from doing what needed doing.

"He leaves a strong Liberal Democrat group ready for the next leader to build towards another fight to take the council in 2014 and end four decades of Labour who have continually failed to deliver for our local residents.

"He will be missed and I wish Robert all the best in his next role."

Constituency has its card marked if voting system changes to AV

LYNNE FEATHERSTONE'S Hornsey and Wood Green constituency has been earmarked as one of the seats most likely to change hands under the alternative vote system.

It is among six seats in London which would change from being classified as "marginal" to "ultra marginal" if the AV voting system is voted through following a referendum next month.

On May 5, voters will be asked whether to stick with the first-past-the-post system – in which they choose one candidate – or to switch to AV where candidates are ranked in order of preference. Under AV, voters' second choices are also taken into account until someone secures 50 per cent of the support.

Conservatives agreed to a referendum being held as part of the coalition deal with the Liberal Democrats but most Tories are against any change. Liberal Democrats are among the strongest supporters of a switch, saying that AV is a fairer system which does not penalise smaller parties.

The New Economics Foundation think tank said Hornsey and Wood Green is one of three ministers' seats which would shift to "ultra marginal" under the new system because Lib Dem Ms Featherstone, who is also government equalities minister, had a majority of just 6,875 in the last election.

New Economics Foundation fellow Nic Marks said: "Our research over the past six years has consistently shown that the UK's electoral system is a postcode lottery, pointlessly riddled with inequalities of power.

"The alternative vote will make some improvements on the current system, but it won't get rid of the main problems. Voters need to decide for themselves whether these improvements are worth a Yes vote."

Sports minister supports Spurs to stay in borough

By Lucy Purdy

ENGLAND'S sports minister has lavished praise on Spurs, saying he will "do everything possible" to help the club stay in Tottenham.

Speaking as Spurs bosses consider whether or not to press ahead with a legal challenge over their failed Olympic stadium takeover bid, Hugh Robertson said he was "entirely confident" with the decision and expressed support for the club and their work within the borough.

In an interview with the Evening Standard newspaper last week, he said: "I was not involved in taking the decision but I'm very pleased with the outcome and very relaxed about this. I'm entirely confident of the process we followed and I'm sure that will be proved in court."

"Spurs is a well-run club financially and they do an enormous amount for the local community. If you look at the work the Spurs Foundation has done in and around the area of the ground, it's fantastic."

"What I would like to do is to get on and help Tottenham develop their new stadium. I hope they will be persuaded to stay inside the borough. All of us, the government, the London mayor, the local council and the club, must do everything possible to try to bring that about. I want to do everything I can to help good football clubs such as Tottenham prosper and succeed."

Spurs' application to take over the stadium in Stratford after next year's Games was rejected in favour of their Premier League rivals West Ham. Spurs chairman

Daniel Levy has written to the Olympic Park Legacy Company and London Mayor Boris Johnson as well as Mr Robertson, raising concerns with the process which led to the award. The OPLC now has four weeks to respond after which time the club will decide whether or not to seek a judicial review.

A spokeswoman for the OPLC said: "We have been consistent, fair, objective and entirely equal in our dealings with the bidders from start to finish. We are confident that if these judicial proceedings are pursued, our approach will be entirely vindicated by the courts."

Support hub centre saved from closure

A COMMUNITY hub in Tottenham hailed as an "amazing model" of the Big Society has won its fight against closure.

Cash-strapped Haringey Council had taken a decision "in principle" to terminate funding to the Selby Centre, in Selby Road, by this month. But following a campaign to try to secure its future, the council opted to reinstate the Selby Trust's grant of £163,000 – meaning it will be able to keep its doors open until at least 2013.

The Selby Centre, which provides facilities for more than 100 social enterprises and community development groups, was described by equalities minister and Hornsey and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone as a textbook example of the Big Society in action.

Sona Mahtani, chief executive of the Selby Trust, welcomed the decision. She told the Advertiser: "As we look ahead, Haringey's priority communities are those which will feel it first as the economy tightens and the need for jobs and income intensifies."

"We hope to continue to be the solution for many charities, social enterprises and community groups who need space and wish to support some of Tottenham's most vulnerable groups."

The centre employs about 300 members of staff and is used by up to people 1,500 daily.

Club to give blind kids a chance to be more active

By Rykesha Hudson

BLIND and partially sighted children from all over north London danced on ice at the official launch of their new club.

The North London Actionnaires launched on Saturday morning with an ice-skating session at the rink in Alexandra Palace.

The club meets twice a month at various locations across north London and is free. It welcomes children aged between four-16 as well as their families. Some of the activities the children have already taken part in include indoor climbing, music workshops and sound-ball tennis, using a musical ball, as well as ten-pin bowling.

Nicky Holloway, regional children and family support co-ordinator, said: "At first all of the kids we saw had very low self-esteem, but we have seen an improvement in them very quickly and they have more confidence in themselves."

Even though the official launch of Actionnaires was on Saturday the scheme has now been running for a year. The previous launch was disrupted and cancelled due to heavy snow last winter.

Nicky said: "We have had a great response so far. There has been a massive increase in members in the past year. The club is very beneficial. Some of them might not know any other blind kids, so it makes them aware that they are not alone and they can make friends. It also improves their basic skills such as balance and helps support the parents."

The Actionnaires is part of the Action For Blind People charity and is funded by the Ernest Hecht Charitable Foundation. There are other clubs in west London, Oxford, Kent and Surrey.

Design award for school's extension to listed building

By Lucy Purdy

A PRIMARY school in Crouch End has scooped a prestigious national design award for its new building extension.

Coleridge Primary School, in Crouch End Hill, was given the award by the Civic Trust for the way an extension has been added to the school – a listed building. Architects were praised for creating a “well-designed and sensitively handled extension”, with judges adding that the building was “a model example of a project that makes an outstanding contribution to its community”.

The former Hornsey School Of Art building, which later became a trade union centre, has been transformed into a base for pupils aged between three and seven. New classrooms on the west side of the school are also being built, including an art room.

Headteacher Shirley Boffey said: “All who work at Coleridge are aware of the quality of the new building, both as a construction that enhances the aesthetic value of Crouch End and as a structure that aids our staff in providing a valuable and stimulating learning environment for our children.”

Lorna Reith, Haringey Council's cabinet member for children and young people, added: “There is no doubt that the more comfortable and happy children are in their surroundings, the more likely they are to enjoy going to school.”

ALAN WILLIAMS

Looking good: Coleridge Primary School

“So the award is excellent news, as are the comments about the school's place in the community.”

Judges said: “Careful care and attention has been given to material and colour choices, creating welcoming, bright and airy interiors.”

Nicholas Hare Architects is the firm behind the extension. The ceremony took place at the People's History Museum in Manchester.

Win tickets to one of Jacksons Lane's shows

Show-stopper: Janne Raudaskoski stars for his only London appearance

BURNING bright with news that its Arts Council funding is secure for another three years, Jacksons Lane hopes to keep the glow going for Easter.

It has invited acclaimed magician Janne Raudaskoski to perform his latest show, Wally Watthead And His Lost Glow, on stage this weekend for his only London dates. The magic champion from Helsinki has created a show combining magic, theatre, clownery, mime and video technology in a highly theatrical tale suitable for ages four and upwards.

In a play on perspective it focuses on the Lilliput-sized world of Polly's beside table where you will find a mobile phone, a picture of Polly and... a bedside lamp.

All is fine with the world until one day the light bulb on Wally's head goes out leading to some much-needed magic.

The show takes place this Saturday and Sunday at 2pm, tickets £9.95. Call the venue in Archway Road, Highgate, on 020 8341 4421.

● But enter our competition and you can get to bask in Wally's – hotly anticipated – glow for free. We have a family ticket (admits two adults and two children) to give-away for the Sunday performance. All you have to do is answer this simple question: Helsinki is the capital of which country? Email competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, and remember to include your name and contact number, by 4pm on Friday. The first entry picked at random will win the family ticket.

Splendid sushi bar need not fish for compliments

Sushi Bento, 8 Dennis Parade, Winchmore Hill Road, Southgate
020 8882 7376/ 020 8882 7764

FOUR days later and we were still talking about the beef.

Wonderfully tender, melt-in-the-mouth grilled skewers of the stuff, marinated and served in a lip-smacking, full-bodied sauce that Geisha Gannet wished, "they would just bottle it up so I can take it home and plug to my heart's content".

So that's our first tip: Number 32 on the Sushi Bento menu, under the "Kushiyak" heading.

Our second tip is: attend on Thursday lunchtime, like we did, and you get everything half price. Good value anyway, this offer allows you to experiment with a startling variety of dishes and still pay peanuts.

So... deep breath... we indulged in a bowl of edamame (boiled soy beans), five gyoza (fried chicken and vegetable dumplings), seven yasai vegetable tempura, six spicy tuna hosomaki (small seaweed rolls filled with rice and fish), six uramaki crispy duck and cucumber rolls, two teriyaki grilled salmon skin temaki, three pieces of sea bass sashimi and, of course, four pieces of beef kushiyak and... oh yeah... two pieces of prawn kushiyak for greedy Geisha because the beef was so darn good!

Only opened a few months ago, this wonderful little addition to the Southgate culinary scene is easy to miss near Southgate Tube and has a no-frills interior, but the service is good, and the food...? Exquisite.

Besides that soon-to-be-famous beef we feel it is only our duty to push you towards the temaki which is a cone-shaped handroll stuffed, not with ice-cream, but rice and whatever delicious filling takes your fancy. The slight snap on the outside as you break through the seaweed pleasantly prepares you for the crunch on the inside and was so enjoyable it joined the prestigious kushiyak in being a must-have order for seconds!

Memories... The Gannets are still reminiscing about that fab feast

Can't make Thursday lunchtime but still want a bargain? No worries. Thursday is also half-price takeaway day while Sundays and Mondays boast all you can eat for £16.80 per head.

Coming in under £25 with two soft drinks and all that grub must be one of the tastiest values for money in the borough. Think you know of any better? Just drop us a line...

North London Reinforcement Project

Statement of Community Consultation

Statutory Notice

National Grid Electricity Transmission plc

Section 47 Planning Act 2008 – Publication of Statement of Community Consultation

Introduction

National Grid Electricity Transmission plc is publishing this Statement of Community Consultation (SoCC) in connection with the proposed North London Reinforcement Project, a project to upgrade the overhead lines (OHL) running from Waltham Cross Substation to Tottenham Substation from 275kV to 400kV.

This project is required because National Grid has signed a number of contracts to connect new sources of electricity generation (power stations, wind farms etc) within the London electricity transmission region to the national grid. When commissioned, these sources of new generation will put more electricity into the distribution network thereby increasing the potential supply of energy available to the city, meeting its growing demand for power.

To facilitate the increased flow of power into London, it is necessary to upgrade substations at Waltham Cross, Brimsdown and Hackney and to upgrade the existing overhead lines that link these substations, to carry this increased voltage.

The North London Reinforcement Project, by reason of its scale, is designated a nationally significant infrastructure project (NSIP). NSIP's are projects that are large in scale and support the economy and vital services. Applications for a Development Consent Order (DCO) for NSIP's in England are considered by the Infrastructure Planning Commission (IPC), which was established in 2009 under the Government's 2008 Planning Act. National Grid currently anticipates that a DCO application for the North London Reinforcement Project will be submitted to the IPC in October/November 2011.

The IPC will assess our DCO application in accordance with National Policy Statements (NPS) EN-1 and EN-5. NPS EN-1 is an overarching statement that explains the need for new energy infrastructure and instructs the IPC on how to assess the impact of multiple types of energy infrastructure. EN-5 focuses specifically on 132kV or higher overhead lines as well as associated works such as substations. All NPS's are currently under review and revised statements will be implemented by the Government in spring 2011. However it is currently advised that significant weight should be attached to the current statements and therefore they have shaped how we intend to consult with the public on our plans.

In addition to upgrading the OHL, the project also includes the following elements:

1. A new substation at Waltham Cross.
2. Replacement of two 275/132kV transformers at Brimsdown Substation with 400/132kV transformers.
3. OHL diversion and associated infrastructure adjacent to Tottenham Substation.
4. Acquiring the necessary access rights and easements to land containing the OHL, or temporarily required to facilitate the works, along the whole length of the OHL between the Waltham Cross and Hackney substations.

The work at our Hackney Substation will take place pursuant to our permitted development rights as a statutory undertaker as set out in Schedule 2, Part 17, Class G of the General Permitted Development Order 1995 (as amended).

Associated with this project, the OHL between Tottenham Substation and Hackney Substation will also be upgraded from 275kV to 400kV. The necessary permissions for this upgrade were included in the original consent that National Grid was granted to construct the OHL in 1967. This element of work, while forming a key part of the required infrastructure reinforcement project, will therefore not be included in the North London Reinforcement Project application that National Grid will be making to the IPC. However, the DCO application to the IPC will include an application for necessary access rights and easements along the entire OHL, including the section between the Tottenham and Hackney substations.

As stated, the North London Reinforcement Project will increase security of electricity power supply for customers in central London. It also offers the opportunity to make technical and visual improvements at our substations at Waltham Cross and Brimsdown under the DCO and Hackney substation under National Grid's permitted development rights.

These benefits cannot be achieved, however, without some impact. This impact is predominantly restricted to the upgrades and improvements that we need to make at the Waltham Cross and Brimsdown substations under the DCO and Hackney Substation under National Grid's permitted development rights. There will also need to be some new infrastructure development within the Lee Valley Regional Park adjacent to Tottenham Substation to enable the newly upgraded OHL to bypass this substation. The physical upgrade of the OHL from Waltham Cross to Tottenham will also have a temporary impact on the local community. At this stage of the project, we anticipate that works could potentially impact on managed habitats along the route of the OHL, the Turnford and Cheshunt Pits, the River Lee Navigation, the River Lee Flood Relief Channel (and its associated overflow tributaries) and the Chingford Reservoirs.

These impacts potentially include (but are not limited to) impacts on: local ecology and wildlife; water and air quality; drainage and flood risk; landscape and visual amenity; archaeology and cultural heritage; noise and vibration; transportation and socio-economic impacts. National Grid is committed to doing all it reasonably can to manage and reduce these impacts.

This SoCC sets out how National Grid proposes to consult with people living in the vicinity of the proposed infrastructure works for the North London Reinforcement Project.

The proposed development is an Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) development. Following consultations and the completion of a detailed EIA, an application for a DCO will be made to the IPC under the Planning Act 2008. This application will be accompanied by an Environmental Statement under the Infrastructure Planning (Environmental Impact Assessment) Regulations 2009. The application is anticipated to be submitted in October/November 2011.

Alongside the consultation around the North London Reinforcement Project, National Grid will, at the same time, carry out an information exercise, informing those living along the OHL between Tottenham Substation and Hackney Substation and those who live in close proximity to Hackney Substation, about future work, taking place under National Grid's permitted development rights, to upgrade the OHL to 400kV and for improvements at the substation.

Consultation with people living in the vicinity of the proposed development is currently planned to be undertaken in three main stages as follows:

North London Reinforcement Project Consultation Stage 1. April/June 2011: Consultation on:

1. The overall scope of the proposed upgrade to the Waltham Cross to Tottenham OHL;
2. Options for:
 - i. A new substation at Waltham Cross;
 - ii. Replacement of two 275/132kV transformers at Brimsdown Substation with 400/132kV transformers; and,
 - iii. Diversion of OHL and new infrastructure in the vicinity of Tottenham Substation.

An information exercise detailing work to upgrade the Tottenham to Hackney OHL to 400kV and the replacement of transformers at Hackney Substation will also take place during this stage of consultation.

North London Reinforcement Project Consultation Stage 2. July/August 2011: Further consultation will be carried out on:

1. Preferred options for:
 - i. A new substation at Waltham Cross;
 - ii. Replacement of two 275/132kV transformers at Brimsdown Substation with 400/132kV transformers;
 - iii. Diversion of OHL and new infrastructure in the vicinity of Tottenham Substation;
2. Any proposed closure or diversion of cycle routes, towpaths, canals, roads, open spaces, nature reserves, and further amenities along the Lee Valley Regional Park; and,
3. Acquiring the necessary access rights and easements to land containing the OHL, or temporarily required to facilitate the works, along the whole length of the OHL between the Waltham Cross and Hackney substations.

North London Reinforcement Project Consultation Stage 3. Autumn 2011:

There will be a third stage of consultation immediately prior to submitting a DCO application to the IPC. This stage of the consultation will focus on the detail of the DCO application to the IPC and the exact scope of the works proposed by National Grid.

Consultation will also be undertaken at this stage on the preliminary environmental information (PEI) gathered as part of the EIA. A report containing the PEI details will be made available to the public along with other project documents.

We will endeavour to provide clear and concise information about the project and its impacts throughout the pre-application consultation process to enable constructive debate to take place. We have published a Stakeholder, Community and Amenity Policy, which sets out our commitments to consultation.

We have been informed of a number of other public consultations within the local area and where possible will take these into account.

Consultations will be undertaken by the following means:

Public exhibitions

Open exhibitions where you can view our proposals, talk to our project team representatives and record your comments. These will be held at suitable publicly accessible venues/locations at regularly spaced intervals along the length of the OHL during each stage of the consultation. There will be a minimum of six separate venues. We anticipate that five consultation exhibitions will take place in proximity to the Waltham Cross, Brimsdown and Tottenham substations, as well as in Waltham Abbey. The sixth exhibition will form a part of the information exercise that National Grid will carry out around the Tottenham to Hackney OHL upgrade and improvements at Hackney Substation. This will be held at a suitable location along this section of the OHL. Notice of the public exhibitions will be given on our project website, by direct communications, and media and project updates, when the venues and dates have been finalised. Feedback forms will be available at the exhibitions for you to record your comments.

Project summary leaflet

During each consultation stage a project summary leaflet and details of planned public exhibitions will be delivered to people living within 1km of the OHL.

Parish and town council and community/area forum briefings

Parish and town councils and community/area forums within whose area the proposed works will be carried out will be offered briefings during each consultation stage to discuss our proposals.

Other public stakeholder group meetings

When invited and where it is possible to do so, we will attend meetings of local community groups affected by our proposals during each stage of the consultation.

Stakeholder group

As we build our relationship with local communities, we will consider, in consultation with relevant town and parish councils and community/area forums, whether there is benefit in establishing a Stakeholder Group, to which we would invite local community nominated representatives to discuss our proposals. If a similar forum is in existence or established by the relevant Local Authorities, we will participate when invited.

Project update

Between now and the submission of our DCO application to the IPC, project updates will be produced according to key project milestones providing an update on our proposals and the consultation process, and reporting on the outcome of the consultation process. These will be distributed to residents and community groups, by email to those registering for further communications on our website, and to parish and town councils and community/area forums who wish to receive them. Copies will be made available on our website and provided on request by our project team.

An explanation of how comments received have shaped and influenced our proposals will be reported to the IPC in a Consultation Report prepared by us which will accompany our DCO application as required by Section 37(3) (c) of the Planning Act 2008. Any comments received may therefore be submitted either in part or in their entirety to the IPC, including names and addresses supplied. The DCO application to the IPC will be publicised and the Consultation Report will be made available on our website and at inspection locations. Where appropriate a charge may be made for copies of project documents up to a maximum of £100 each for a printed hard copy and £15 each for a CD-ROM.

BALE ISSUES A RALLYING CALL

By Dominique Stafford

GARETH BALE has issued a rallying call ahead of tonight's second leg of Tottenham Hotspur's Champions League quarter-final against Real Madrid at White Hart Lane.

Spurs face a seemingly impossible task if they are to reach the last four after suffering a nightmare first leg in the Spanish capital last Tuesday, crashing to a 4-0 defeat.

But Welsh international Bale – who was nominated for the Professional Footballer's Association Player of the Year award last week along with team-mate Rafael van der Vaart – insists that all is not lost and Tottenham can pull off a miraculous comeback.

"Anything can happen," he said. "We will be ready for them."

"We have to play at our best, stop their best players and score goals at White Hart Lane. It's going to be a difficult task, everyone knows that, but I still think it's possible."

"We are not going to sit back and take another beating from them in the second leg. Hopefully we will win, and hopefully that will be enough.

"We are a young team who are still learning, and I think we can definitely learn from this."

Spurs did at least bring their four match goal drought to an end on Saturday when they beat Stoke City 3-2 at home in the Premier League.

Peter Crouch partially atoned for his dismissal for two reckless tackles in the Bernabeu by scoring twice, with Luka Modric also on target.

And Crouch admitted that he was relieved to have put his horrific night behind him.

He said: "That was as low as I've felt, just because of the sheer importance of the match. With each goal that went in, it felt like I had cost the team."

"I said sorry to the players and the manager, but I had the chance to say sorry to all the fans as well on Saturday. I was dying to play, and hopefully I have repaid everyone a bit with two goals."

Staying upbeat: Gareth Bale has not given up hope of reaching the Champions League semi-finals

Your chance to win tickets for big boxing event

BIG-TIME boxing will return to Alexandra Palace next month when the famous venue hosts the Prizefighter International Heavyweights event – and you could see all the action for free if you win our fantastic competition.

The Advertiser has teamed up with Matchroom Sport to offer five lucky readers the chance to win a pair of unreserved tickets for what promises to be a dramatic night of boxing on May 7.

The 18th edition of the popular Prizefighter tournament promises to be the biggest one yet, with fighters from outside the United Kingdom and Ireland offered the chance to take part for the first time.

American Kevin "Kingpin" Johnson – who has only suffered one defeat, which was at the hands of Vitali Klitschko – leads a top-class line-up also including unbeaten Irish-based Cuban Mike "The Rebel" Perez and former WBF champion Richel Hersisia.

Tickets, ranging from £35 to £120, are available now by calling 01277 359900, but for your chance to see all the action for free, simply answer the following question.

Who is the only man to have beaten Kevin "Kingpin" Johnson?

Send your answers on a postcard, along with your name, address and telephone number to: Haringey Advertiser Sports Desk, 4th Floor, Refuge House, 9-10 River Front, Enfield, Middlesex, EN1 3SZ.
